DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

Borden Shaft Survey District is located on MD Route 936, 3½ miles S of Frostburg. It lies near the center of the Georges Creek coal region of WV. The topography of the district is relatively flat. The majority of historic buildings of the district are located on Morgan Road, which meets Rt. 936 at Borden Shaft, and on side streets running N and S of Morgan Road. Georges Creek and an embankment of the abandoned C & P Railroad parallel Route 36 at Shaft.

The architecture of the town is characterized by single family and duplex company housing. Three single family company houses on Morgan Road are 2 story, 3 bay by 1 bay frame buildings with gabled roofs, shed roofed porches sheltering the facade, and gable roofed frame additions abutting the rear elevations. A row of duplex company houses on Morgan Road are 2 story, 4 bay by 1 bay frame buildings with gabled roofs, shed roofed porches, sheltering their facades and large rear wings with gabled roofs. A row of duplex company houses on Unnamed Street are 1½ story, 4 bay by 2 bay brick buildings with gabled roofs extended on the rear elevations which give these buildings a saltbox shape. Windows of the brick duplex houses have tooled stone lintels with margins.

A number of vernacular styled dwellings in either the survey district are 2 story, 3 bay by 1 bay frame buildings based on the ell plan and have gabled roofs.

The Shaft Firemens' Hall is a 2½ story, 1 bay by 3 bay frame building with a gabled roof with a square hose tower and a large shed roofed addition abutting the western elevation.

*Unnamed Street, South off Morgan Road between Georges Creek and Rt. 36.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

Borden Shaft is a typical company town in the Georges Creek coal region of western Maryland. The town was established circa 1860 by the Borden Mining Company.¹ The town was built on the site of the Ward Farm which included a gristmill, a sawmill and a log farmhouse.² In 1856 the Borden Mining Company purchased 500 acres of the Ward Farm underlaid by 2 veins of coal.³

The Borden Mining Company's mine, Sunk in 1859, was the first vertical shaft mine in the Georges Creek region. Only are other vertical shaft mine ever existed in the region.⁴ In 1880 the town's population was 289 and was growing rapidly.⁵
